Detailed Course Syllabus (attachment)

*UHON 351 seminars substitute of University Core Curriculum courses. They should be rigorous, innovative, rely more heavily on discussion/participation, and should address issues of potential interest to a range of undergraduate majors. What should distinguish a UHON 351 seminar is qualitative, rather than quantitative. Course design should take into account an enrollment limit of 15 students per class. For full consideration, all syllabi must include:

- a. Detailed course description
- b. Student learning objectives
- c. Schedule/outline of topics and learning experiences
- d. List of texts or other reading materials
- e. Description of grading scheme/rubric
- f. Prompts for term papers, journals, projects
- g. Description of how this course provides a unique educational experience, appropriate for Honors students at SIUC
- h. Abbreviated Curriculum Vitae (2-3 page maximum attachment) emphasizing teaching experience and effectiveness.
