

“I’ve been waiting for this book!” – Bill McKibben

"I interviewed Bucky Fuller as a young journalist, and the rush of profound ideas is exactly as this charming story describes. It also proves that serious is not necessarily synonymous with solemn." -- Bill McKibben, Author, Founder, 350.org

"I am very excited about this critically timed true story." --Allegra Fuller Snyder, Buckminster Fuller's daughter

"Ravasio makes profound relevant ideas easily accessible in this delightful narrative. These ideas are needed more than ever, as America and the world struggle." --Amy Edmondson, Harvard, Author of A Fuller Explanation: The Synergetic Geometry of Buckminster Fuller

The Girl from Spaceship Earth Earns 5 Stars on both Amazon and Goodreads. Reader Reviews:

"This book is great fun and a wonderful story-telling of one woman's adventures in living, centered on her experiences with Buckminster Fuller, the man and his ideas."

"An inspiring journey of a young woman, her life forever affected by Bucky's vision and his willingness to share his wisdom with her."

"This is a great book for young people, baby boomers, and anyone who cares about the future of humanity."

"It is for everyone who cares about planet earth and those who inhabit it. A super-fast read that is so engaging I had a hard time putting it down."

"No other book has left me with such a compelling drive to live my life with integrity."

Patricia Ravasio is a community volunteer and environmental activist who lives in Northern California with her husband and two dogs. She has written a weekly column in her local newspaper for many years and is a former radio journalist. This is her first book.